DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This pair of two story, two bay brick houses with gable roofs was built in the early 1870's as part of the development of this middle section of this side of Poultney St.

The houses are two stories in height, 15' wide, and occupy lots 62 1/2' deep. Each house has a two story high, four bay deep rear addition, followed by a one story high, two bay deep addition which extend to the rear of the lot. The houses are constructed in running bond. The low-pitched gable roof has a continuous, two-tier brick cornice. There are no extant roof chimneys but each house has a hooded rear end chimney located at the north end of the two story rear addition. 34 Poultney St. has its original standing seam tin roof.

All of the door and window openings have segmentally arched brick lintels with solid wood tympanums. The sills at 34 Poultney are wood; those at 36 Poultney are brick headers. All of the window openings are filled with the original 4/4 double hung sash. 34 Poultney has a Mission-style door; 36 Poultney has a panel door with upper lights. Both doors are set beneath single light transoms bordered by a row of cut-work scallops. The houses sit on fairly high basements, the entrance to 34 Poultney being reached by four wood steps and the entrance to 36 Poultney being reached by three stone steps. 34 Poultney has two square basement opening with two lights each located to the right of the steps; 36 Poultney has a single rectangular basement opening located to the left of the steps. A flat-roofed alleyway runs between the two houses.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

These houses are typical of the type of modest two story, gable-roofed house built in the 1850's and 1860's to serve as inexpensive housing for the influx of newly arrived immigrant families seeking work in harbor-related activities, such as the row of houses built along nearby Patapsco St. This pair, however, is somewhat larger than the usual example of the type, being set on a higher basement and with a large rear addition.

The houses were built by an unknown builder for Ellen Poultney, who leased them to individual owners in 1870. The first owner of 34 Poultney St. was a William Wolf, slater, and the second owner was a Henry Eckhardt, a cutter. The first owner of 36 Poultney St. was a Lewis Cook, a clerk.¹
